

Abstract of the Disclosure

A data reading apparatus reads variable length-coded data. A digital signal processor of this data reading apparatus executes a code word reading step of sequentially reading a series of code words partitioned by a plurality of resynchronization markers, and a resynchronization marker detecting step of detecting a next resynchronization marker before a reading position in the code word reading step reaches the next resynchronization marker.

10